

Developing Tomorrow's Leaders: Elements of Success and Character Education

Denise Leavell

“Good manners will open doors that the best education cannot.”

- C. Thomas

Life for children these days is tough enough; when you imagine the young people you know and love, full of questions that they don't yet know to ask, wouldn't you like to give them every advantage you can?

Civility, good manners, and leadership skills are far from snooty things of the past. Character education forms the foundation of young people's success, now and in their futures.

Developing Tomorrow's Leaders: Elements of Success and Character Education is not an old-fashioned, finishing school-type program. We guarantee success training will help build your children's confidence in any social situation.

The most popular topics for youth programs and speeches include dining etiquette, appropriate public behavior, and preparing for social events, work, and college interviews. These programs are proven to build self-esteem, self-respect, and respect for others.

Our dining program offers hands-on training in every dining skill, from managing silverware and difficult-to-eat foods to sending thank you notes and much more.

Developing Tomorrow's Leaders etiquette programs cover a variety of essential elements of social and communication skills such as handshaking and introductions, conversation and listening skills, telephone and public etiquette, and so much more.

All of our programs are as unique as your youth are; we customize each one for young people ages 8 to 12, 13 to 17 and 18 to 22. We begin by assessing your group's or individual needs so that we can tailor a fun, interactive program just for you, including workbooks and hands-on role-playing exercises.

We won't turn your children into uptight Ms. and Mr. Manners; Developing Tomorrow's Leaders: Elements of Success and Character Education programs give them the skills they will use every day to make a good impression, to feel more at ease in social situations now and into their adult, professional lives.

“The hardest job kids face today is learning good manners without seeing any.”

- Fred Astaire
